Super Smash Brother's Story

SUPER SMASH BROTHERS STORY By Paul McCormick

In the land of Nintendo all is not well. After the recent party thrown by Mario to decide who was the biggest star of them all, many people were outraged that they weren't included and the people that did participate felt that it was rigged for Mario to win. Old rivalries flared up as new ones began. It was clear that a new contest must take place to settle the bickering. But several changes had to be made so it was not like Mario Party. The contestants didn't want to play games; they wanted to beat each other into a bloody pulp. So the idea of a fighting game containing any Nintendo characters that wished to join may compete in to find who really is the best. The game was Named SUPER SMASH BROTHERS! The name came as a result of a settlement between Mario and Nintendo. Originally Mario wanted it to be named SMASHING MARIO! But Nintendo fought to keep the name open. Anyway, the tournament was on! All they needed now was to make rules and battlegrounds and to wait for characters to join. In My fan fic's characters will fight and you must know the names of the moves from SSB to understand. Also, in my stories the characters are killed all the time but those floating platforms bring them back to life. Last but not least the battles are fought in a holo-room like the ones in star trek so when I say the characters stepped into the computer they are walking into the holo-room More to come so ENJOY!!!
